In all cases, a tiny home cannot be smaller than the minimum required size set out in Ontario's Building Code, which is 17.5 m² (188 ft²). Add a tiny home to your property. Before you decide to add a tiny home to your property, it is important that you first speak with your local municipal planning and building departments. They can tell you whether you can add or build a tiny home to your property and answer questions related to the Building Code, zoning and other by-laws.
